

Where the coast meets the countryside

Lincolnshire Coastal Country Park

Marsh Yard for seascape

This wild, windswept coast is a great place for watching the sea and its wildlife.

We find ourselves attracted to the sea. We are in awe of its vastness and power. Its predictable rhythms are soothing, but its changing moods can stir up powerful emotions. It is often playful, beautiful and uplifting; sometimes sullen and threatening – but always invigorating.

How does the sea make you feel today? And what will you see out there?

If you are really lucky, you might spot a harbour porpoise.

Look out for terns fishing. They dive bomb down, disappear briefly underwater, then rise up again – fish in beak.
